MONTH'S BUILDING TO DATE $797,474

Glendale Host To Burbank Councilmen This Evening

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Glendale's Growth Is Assured by Many Facts and Signs

WITH the building permits for Glendale for August up to noon today amounting to $797,474, it looks as if the total for the month would come pretty close to the million figure. Today's permits amount to $23,875, which brings the total for the year so far to $6,531,445, an average of $816,430 per month.

The entire permits for last year amounted to $6,305,971.00, which was thought a high figure. And it was. This year it took less than eight months to go ahead of last year's total.

THIS surely is a most wonderful showing for a city the size of Glendale. In fact all signs go to show that Glendale soon—and mighty soon at that,—will be in the big city class. We are accumulating daily additional benefits which our citizens have the privilege of sharing. The low tax rate is a big asset and undoubtedly will be the means of bringing more citizens to our city than any other inducement. People are inclined to look on money spent for taxes as so much thrown away and since the war this idea has grown considerably, and with good reason.

Glendale citizens have swelled with pride in being able to boast of living in the "fastest growing city in America." They can now add "with the lowest tax rate in the county." We may find that more territory than the county may be mentioned but up to the present, not enough figures are available to know for certain. We have had a picture in our mind for a long time of the future Glendale and have done our best to convey the picture to you. The future of Glendale is just as sure as tomorrow's sun.

* * *

WITH THE TAX RATE out of the way, comes an assurance of a bridge giving ready access to Griffith Park. This assurance was given us today by C. Gordon Whitnall, director of the Los Angeles planning commission, in a short speech before the Glendale realty board. He mentioned that three points had been under consideration, these being Park avenue, Broadway and Colorado boulevard.

Colorado had been chosen on account of its central location and the fact that it continues through Eagle Rock and Pasadena.

* * *

THIS leaves only two propositions of major importance, the sewer and the civic center. The answer to the sewer is in the hands of the Los Angeles officials. They have told us repeatedly that they were going to grant our request and we have no reason to doubt their word.

The civic center idea has already been sold to a great many of our citizens. Its presentation to the people is awaiting final action on the sewer.

Charged With Being Drunk in the Street

P. H. Anderson, address not known, was arrested at the corner of Broadway and Brand at 5:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the charge against him being intoxication, according to Glendale police records. He was lodged in headquarters jail, state the reports.

A formal contract was executed by the board of education Tuesday evening with Carroll L. Hare, to whom was awarded the job of painting the Colorado and Columbus Avenue schools.

Similar contracts were entered into with the Johnson company for certain plumbing at Central Avenue and Colorado schools; with the Hammell Radiator company, heating apparatus at Acacia school, and with the Potter Radiator company for heating equipment at Central Avenue.

NEIGHBORING CITY'S HEADS TO BE DINED

Start Campaign of Getting Together on Common Issues

MUTUAL BENEFITS

Glendale Sewer Plans to Be the Topic for Discussion

The importance of cultivating friendly relations with sister communities was emphasized at the meeting of the city council Monday night in connection with the discussion of the present status of negotiations with Los Angeles for a sewer outlet. Mayor Robinson announced that neighborliness would be the policy of the council and mentioned the dinner council members are giving tonight at the Egyptian Cafe, in this city, to members of the Burbank city council.

At that dinner, which is to be an informal, get-together social and business affair, questions of common interest to the two communities will be discussed.

The secretary of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce appeared before the Glendale council at a meeting of the committee of the whole, Monday night, to urge that the governing powers of the two cities cooperate in the establishment and improvement of certain thoroughfares which extend from one city into the other. Several such streets north of San Fernando Road are now being improved by Burbank and their extension in Glendale would seem to be a matter of advantage to both communities. That is one of the matters that will, no doubt, be considered at the dinner.

Burbank has not been heard from on the sewer problem, and whether it will be interested in Glendale's effort to secure a sewer outlet through Los Angeles remains to be determined.

L. A. TEACHERS TO MEET HERE

Teachers' Institute the coming year was the theme of a letter from the office of the county superintendent, Mark Keppel, read at the regular meeting of the board of education held Tuesday night at which Judge Harry W. Chase, newly elected member, was present for the first time.

The letter stated that institutes will be held in this city at Glendale high, October 8 to 12, and November 19 to 23, and a general one-day institute in Los Angeles with the California Teachers' association at some later date.

The Glendale city schools were invited to participate in these institutes, although they have the privilege of holding separate institutes if they prefer. The board voted to cooperate in the program outlined by Superintendent Keppel.

SCHOOL BOARD DENIES REQUEST

The request of the University of Psychological Research of Los Angeles for the use of the Wilson avenue school auditorium once a week for 30 weeks, tendered at the Tuesday night meeting of the Board of Education, was denied. It was agreed by the board that such continued use of the auditorium might conflict with other uses and that it was against the policy of the board to make such a lease.

DRIVES INTO LUMBER TRUCK AT COLORADO

A. Smith of West Elk street is reported to have driven his Dort touring car into the rear of a Bentley lumber truck at the intersection of Colorado and Brand. The accident happened about 11 o'clock this morning. The lights, radiator, windshield and right front wheel of Smith's car were reduced to debris. The lumber truck was not damaged. No one was hurt.

W. BROADWAY FOLKS SEEK IMPROVEMENT

Decide to Petition Council for New Set-back Line

WANT LIGHT POSTS

Association Goes on Record for Circulation of Petitions

Representatives of the West Broadway Improvement association, which met Tuesday night at the office of O. M. Newby, president, at 107 South Central avenue, are to go before the Glendale city council at its meeting on Thursday night to present petitions signed by property owners of the district, requesting the establishment of a set-back line of 10 feet on either side of Broadway, from Central avenue to San Fernando Road.

Another important feature of the business meeting of the association was the report given by the committee on ornamental street lights, of which A. H. Lapham was chairman. The type of two-light standards that East Broadway, Central avenue and Glendale avenue have adopted for installation, was adopted. Petitions will be circulated among the property owners on West Broadway and when the required percentage has been received the petitions will be presented to the city council.

There will be another meeting of the West Broadway Improvement association to be held in the near future to authorize this matter being presented to the council.

SUNSET CANYON TO STAGE SWIM

Arrangements are being completed for the exhibition swimming meet to be held at Sunset Canyon Country club on Thursday night, August 30, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.. This meet will be open to all members of the club and to 45 invited Glendale Community Service guests who are interested in swimming. These guests must be registered at the Glendale Community Service headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce, where they will receive their guest cards.

There will be seven champion swimmers present from the Los Angeles Athletic club, including Viola Hartman, who holds the national championship for 10-foot spring board dive and who also won all events in special diving at the meet last week at Brookside park, and Ralph Summerill, who also holds various records for diving.

In addition to these exhibition numbers there will be a 50-yard race for women, a candle race for women, a 50-yard and 100-yard dash for men and a tub race for men.

The girls and women may make their entries at the Community Service headquarters. Already eight have signed up for the various events. The boys will make their own entries with Gordon Bartow. Everyone is asked to bring his or her own swimming suit and towels.

Informal dancing will be held in the clubhouse after the swimming program.

BUSINESS WOMEN HOLD BIG DINNER

155 Members and Escorts Attend Banquet at the Egyptian Cafe

FINE PROGRAM GIVEN

Cavanah Pupils Give Demonstration of Talent

A big success was the banquet given by the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club, Tuesday night at the Egyptian cafe, when 155 members and their friends were served to a delicious dinner while the Etheopian orchestra entertained with popular vocal and instrumental numbers.

To many guests it was the first view of this novel cafe dansant and all the circumstances of the occasion combined to make it a very pleasant introduction.

Following the dinner a fine program arranged by Mrs. Jane MacKeown Whittemore, of the Cavanah Studios of Music and Dramatic Art was presented, which included numbers by talented students and heads of departments. Julius Kranz, head of the violin department, who played one of his own compositions, "At Twilight," which greatly delighted his audience. There were readings by Mrs. Whittemore, head of the dramatic department, whose "Da Sweeta Soil," in Italian dialect, and "Proposin'" arranged by herself, drew great applause. Three duet number were sung by Mr. and Mrs. Cavanah, whose voices blend so wonderfully that it is always a great treat to hear them. They sang "Until" (Sanderson); "At Parting" (Cadman), and "At Dawning" (Cadman). One of the climaxes of the evening was the singing of Henry Cantor, operatic tenor, who is so soon to leave Glendale for a concert tour of the Orient. His contributions were "Questo" from Rigoletto, another Italian number, and "Mother O' Mine." The concert he is to give under the auspices of the Tuesday Afternoon club, September 22, on the eve of starting upon his tour, was announced.

Miss Mabel Carrow, who is a pupil of the Cavanah school sang very beautifully "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses" (Openshaw), and the familiar "I Love You Truly" (Bond).

Juvenile pupils showed wonderful poise and pleased their friendly audience composed largely of parents. Betty Blake contributed a piano solo, Ruth Stein, readings; Thalia Wilson, readings; Leo Ratigan, James Edmonds, and Charles Hirt, violin trios; Marguerite Anderson, readings and a charming vocal number, "Marcheta", Jeannette Zeitlan, piano duets with her instructor, Mrs. A. R. Ludlow, who was one of the accompanists of the evening. Harry Nielson accompanied Mr. Cantor.

The club's social nights are growing in popularity and the capacity of the cafe was taxed to the limit to accommodate the crowd. Tickets had to be denied to a good many who sought them after reservations had closed.

COMMITTEES ON CITY PLANNING

Secretary E. F. Sanders of the chamber of commerce reports that a joint committee meeting will be held in the near future of the city planning committee, appointed by the Exchange club to co-operate with the chamber of commerce and the committee appointed by the Tuesday Afternoon club. The joint effort will be to secure a city planning commission for Glendale.

FINED $300 FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Joseph Fish of Glendale was fined $300 for reckless driving by Judge Lowe, Tuesday morning. One hundred dollars of this fine was paid, the balance to be paid within 60 days, state police records.

FOOTHILL FOLKS OUT FOR SCHOOL

A letter from the Foothill Improvement association, addressed to the Glendale Board of Education, was read at its Tuesday night meeting and ordered placed on file without action being taken. It requested the board to secure another grammar school site of five acres or more in the extreme northwest section of the city, near Mountain and Thompson avenues.

The board held it had no power to act until bonds had been voted for such purpose.

POSTOFFICE SITE PUT UP TO HALLETT

Postmaster to Attend the Exchange Club Convention

IS LEAVING SEPT. 9

Until His Return in October, Assistant Postmaster to Act

An exodus on "Admission Day" is the announcement of Postmaster L. Ripley Jackson, who says he is leaving September 9, with his wife and daughter for the Atlantic coast with the national convention of Exchange clubs, to be held in Springfield, Mass., September 24, as his goal.

The Southern Pacific will carry them to New Orleans and from there they will journey by boat to New York. Mrs. Jackson and her daughter will visit relatives and old friends in New Jersey, while Mr. Jackson proceeds to Springfield. He will return about the middle of October.

During his absence, Assistant Postmaster Hallett will be in full charge of the Glendale office, with the same power to negotiate for a site for the postoffice that rests with the postmaster himself.

Relative to that matter, the captain was very noncommittal when questioned, merely stating in a general way that the committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce and headed by R. F. Kitterman has consulted him, but so far as he knows has taken no action since then. He intimated that the site had been practically decided upon and that he preferred to have the announcement made, when the time is ripe, by the Chamber of Commerce committee; that publicity might hamper the negotiations now going on.

SCHOOL CLOCK BIDS ARE OPENED

Bids for clocks for new school rooms in process of building, were opened at the meeting of the board of education held Tuesday night. The bidders were all Glendale concerns, viz.: Walker Jewelry company, R. L. Cole, Lewis Jewelry company, C. E. Peck, E. E. Dail and Arthur Dibbern. As many different makes of clocks were represented, the bids being referred to Business Manager Black for checking and report at the next meeting.

Wayfarer Speaker to Talk Tonight

Glendale is being specially favored by Dr. Crowther, author of "The Wayfarer," who will be in this city Thursday night at the Tuesday Afternoon club to speak upon the great pageant to be staged in Los Angeles September 8 to 15 with a cast of 7,000 participants. He is giving talks in only seven cities of Southern California and Glendale is one of the seven. It is one of the great spectacles of the ages and to be thoroughly enjoyed should be understood. It is to explain its great purpose that Dr. Crowther is coming. Further particulars can be had by telephoning Mrs. A. H. Montgomery or Mrs. A. A. Barton, social secretary of the club.

COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE IS ASSURED

Collective Collecting Plan Adopted by C. of C. Committee

NEXT MEET SEPT. 11

Suggestion of Employing Professional Director Is Opposed

At their noonday luncheon Tuesday, members of the Community chest committee appointed by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and representatives of various civic and other local organizations, went on record unanimously as being heartily in favor of the Community chest idea after thorough investigation of data secured from various cities where it is functioning and they endorsed a community chest campaign this fall, subject to the instruction of their several organizations. It was the general understanding that each member would present it to his or her organization and submit a report at the next committee meeting called for Tuesday, September 11. Members present were Dr. Warren Z. Newton, chairman; A. R. Eastman, George Karr, Burton McGinnis, C. W. Ingledue; Mesdames A. A. Barton, E. D. Yard, H. E. Bartlett and Miss Gibbs.

Dr. Newton read replies received to letters he had written to various cities where the community chest has been tried. All were very encouraging. San Jose reported a campaign put on in November which had enabled 22 agencies that were beneficiaries to function satisfactorily throughout the year. This year it is planning to raise about $90,000 and to have about 3000 workers in the field during the campaign.

Battle Creek reported two drives and urged an early start to insure success.

Portland, Ore., as an evidence of the success of its community chest sent a printed copy of a report of a survey of its work made by a committee of business men appointed by the city club of Portland, which was a very flattering endorsement.

C. W. Henson of San Diego reported that in the second year of its existence the community chest more than doubled the number of its contributors and in the third year there was an increase of 40 per cent in the amount raised. Said he: "The public needed education and the public responded."

There was a good response from Sioux City, Iowa, and Mr. Burleson of the Pacific division of the Red Cross agreed to help with the campaign if he could possibly arrange to do so.

Some discussion followed in regard to the employment of a professional to put on a community chest campaign, and the majority of those present were opposed to the idea.

Mr. Ingledue advocated an intensive campaign of education that the community may have a clear idea of the plan and purpose before starting a drive.

The majority of those present were in favor of not turning back after having put their hands to the plow, and all agreed to present the plan to the associations they represent and ask for instructions which they can report back at the next committee meeting two weeks hence. Almost without exception they were agreed that the public would prefer one big drive to many separate small ones.

ROUND TABLE MOVEMENT IN L. A. AUG. 29

Miss Vida Reed Stone to Give Lecture on Its Purposes

By Hannah Luella Hukill, M. D.

Mrs. Vida Reed Stone of Hollywood, Calif., will give a stereopticon lecture program at 311 West Oak street this evening at 7:45, her subject being "Twentieth Century Knighthood." The lecture will be illustrated with 50 hand colored slides, many of them copies of masterpieces; historical and romantic pictures of King Arthur's court and the knights of the Round Table in the middle ages, pictures of our present age dealing with the slum, factory, child labor, school and other social and economic conditions which need righting in our life today; also pictures of an international organization known as the Order of the Round Table. This order is attempting to right these wrongs by adapting the ancient ideals of knighthood to our twentieth century.

Our young people are keenly aware of the world situation surrounding them today, and are anxious, as were the knights of old, to wage spiritual warfare against the old forms of selfishness and greed. They are quickly inspired to serve their age and the motto of chivalry, "Live pure, speak pure, right wrong, follow the King" becomes for them the law of life.

Mrs. Stone is chief knight of the Order of the Round Table in America and is organizing tables in many centers. The order is international, being already established in twenty-seven countries. It is governed by a senior council, meeting each year in London, and by national councils in all countries where it is working.

The order is open to young people between the ages of 8 and 21, and to adults over 21 who desire to form tables and to work in the order. The round table is a league of young people banded together for service in the name of Christ, the Supreme King.

Our civilization of today is greatly in need of a band of young people with high ideals of chivalry and honor. Twentieth century wrongs need righting as did the wrongs of King Arthur's day. Young people trained in the ideals of the Order of the Round Table will help to create a new age and give the world a higher ideal of citizenship based on brotherhood.

The lecture is free and parents and educators would do well to avail themselves of this opportunity to gain a closer knowledge of the Round Table work while Mrs. Stone is in this city. Young people are especially welcome.

DOUBLES ALL AUGUST 1922 INVESTMENT

May Exceed $900,000 Before Month Ends on Friday

NO SLOWING UP HERE

Home Construction Is the Characteristic of Construction

Building permits for August up to noon today reached the enormous total of $797,474, this being more than twice the amount of the permits for the entire of August, 1922, during which month permits totaling $394,204 were issued.

This ought to be a knockout blow to the fellows who have been trying to retard things in Glendale by their "things are slowing up" talk.

There are still three days to go in this month. What will they bring forth in the way of building permits? The chances are that the total of permits for the month will run up to at least $850,000, and may even go over the $900,000 mark.

One of the principal features of the building permits that have been taken out in Glendale for the past three or four months is the fact that a large percentage has been for homes. Previous to that time it was the opinion of some that the building of business structures was advancing a little too rapidly for the residential portion of the city. Even though this may have been a fact it is true that during May, June, July and August the permits for homes have by far outstripped those for business structures, so that at the present time the building of homes and store buildings are evenly balanced.

The following permits were issued during the past 24 hours:

W. N. Kirby, Kirby road, 5 rooms, E. L. Jones, contractor	$3600
Walter C. Winter, 252 Zerr Court, 4 rooms	1250
E. and A. M. Rees, 1014 South Mariposa, 4 rooms; D. C. Kramer, contractor	3700
Same addition, to garage	300
Leslie Clause, 515 South street, garage	100

Mabel C. Baugh, 1121 Green, 3 rooms and garage	2800

INDIAN VISITORS ARRIVE IN CITY

A very picturesque group of three Indians in beautiful Indian costume was seen in Glendale this morning. They were Chief Green Pine, his wife, Red Wing, and his little daughter, "Bright Eyes" from the Fort Hall Reservation of Bannocks in Idaho. They are in the cast of the group which forms an accessory to the screen production of "The Covered Wagon," at Grauman's Egyptian theater, and are graduates of the Fort Hall Indian Training College. Clearly, they are persons of education and intelligence far removed from the average Indian of their tribe.

Red Wing played in New York ten years ago in "The Perils of Pauline." Ever since last fall the three have been with "The Covered Wagon."

MISS BAKER WEDS IN THE GARDEN OF HER HOME

Beautiful Setting Attends Nuptials of Glendale Young Folks

Very beautiful was the setting for the wedding of Miss Maurine Elizabeth Baker and Joseph B. Maier that took place on Tuesday night, August 28, 1923, at 8 o'clock in the garden of the bride's residence. Miss Baker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rhea Baker of 331 North Maryland avenue and Mr. Maier is the son of Mrs. Marie Maier of 608 North Adams street, Glendale.

Dr. J. G. Kennedy of Occidental United Presbyterian church, former pastor of the bride's and an old friend of the family, officiated at the double ring ceremony that took place underneath a bower of greenery, at either side of which was a large white basket filled with rose-pink dahlias and larkspur. The electric lights were shaded with rose-pink. The bridal path was lined with white and marked with ropes of greenery and ferns. The color scheme of pink and blue was carried out throughout the other decorations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of white satin-crepe trimmed with panel of metallic lace, with cape collar of the same. Her wedding veil was caught with lilies of the valley and she carried a shower of bride's roses, lilies of the valley and ferns.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marie Maier, sister of the bridegroom, who was dressed in pink satin trimmed with silver, and Miss Lela Mae Heil of Orange, who wore turquoise blue satin, trimmed with silver. Both carried bouquets of rose-pink sweet peas. The maid of honor was Miss Phyllis Baker, sister of the bride. She wore a gown of peach colored brocaded satin, trimmed with silver, and carried a bouquet of Los Angeles roses.

Little Pauline Hoffman was the flower girl, wearing a fluffy dress of rose-pink organdie and carrying a beautiful basket of Cecil Brunner roses. Edgar Parmelee of Pasadena was the best man. He and Mr. Maier are both graduates from the California Institute of Technology. Clair Staley, also a college friend, was the usher.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Agnes Sparklin of Hollywood sang "Oh, Promise Me," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Bruce Brown of Los Angeles. Mrs. Brown, who is an accomplished pianist, also played the wedding march from "Lohengrin." She is a girlhood friend of the bride's. The ceremony was witnessed by members of the immediate family of the bride and bridegroom and also by a group of intimate friends, numbering in all about thirty.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Baker residence, Here, too, the color scheme of rose-pink and blue was carried out in the decorations and also in the pink candles tied with tulle. Refreshments of individual molds of ice cream with the wedding symbols, and bride's cake were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Maier will spend their honeymoon in the mountains, after which they will make their home in Long Beach, where Mr. Maier is a teacher in the Long Beach high school.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

The paving of Pennsylvania avenue from Michigan avenue to Honolulu avenue, just completed, has created a new residential district for La Crescenta. Honolulu Acres, a subdivision recently placed on the market by F. H. Anderson of Montrose, has been sold out, and other acreages on Pennsylvania is fast being bought up and subdivided. The most recent purchase was made by A. C. Anderson of Glendale. Mr. Anderson bought ten acres of C. Cookson, on Pennsylvania, and will immediately subdivide and place it on the market. Bert Kurtz of La Canada, superintendent of the Los Angeles road department, recently purchased the corner lot on Michigan and Pennsylvania, across from Mr. Cookson. Montrose and Pennsylvania avenues will also be the terminus of the Glendale & Montrose railway in the near future.

Tom and Bart Bonetto, successors to E. Busch, have let the contract for their new building on Los Angeles and Montrose avenues to McCune & Spindt of Pasadena, who immediately began the erection of their new home. The building will be constructed of brick and up-to-date in every way. They will handle a full line of poultry supplies, feed and fuel, and deliver in all parts of the valley. The Bonetto boys are known to every resident of the La Crescenta valley, who wish them every success in their new home.

A. W. Brown has leased his property at 501 South Los Angeles to Tom Griffith, who with his family will take possession about September 15. This has been the home of Dr. B. H. Smith for the past two years. Dr. Smith and daughter, Miss Ethelyne Smith, are leaving for their new home in Huntington Park the later part of this week, which is a matter of deep regret to their many friends here.

C. Jennings Young, assistant fire warden for this district, was called to Tejunga Monday night to assist in putting out a fire. One home was completely destroyed. The combined efforts of Tejunga and the local fire equipment prevented the fire spreading.

Dr. J. G. Telfer and family of East Honolulu avenue returned Monday from a two weeks' stay at Lake Tahoe.

A. M. Perry, assistant dean and business manager of the College of Music of U. S. C., was a guest of Miss Marguriete Hauber last Sunday. Mr. Perry was accompanied by his mother and two daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Cohen and family of Memphis, Tenn., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Jones of Michigan and Los Angeles avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee Woolwine, who are domiciled at the La Crescenta Hotel, entertained a group of friends at a swimming party at the Onondarka ranch yesterday afternoon.

The La Crescenta Girl Scouts Troop 1 with their captain, Mrs. Jessie Hanson, are planning an all day picnic at Brookside Park next Friday. Tennis and swimming will be some of the diversions of the day.

MONTROSE NOTES

Complimenting Miss Ethel Dewey of Chicago who is the guest of her father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Dewey of La Canada. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Their guest were Miss Ethel Dewey, the honor guest, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Dewey and Donald Dewey of La Canada, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Culberson, Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Nettleton and Daniel Cook.

Miss Louise Saunders is visiting Miss Florence Bruce of La Crescenta during the absence of Miss Bruce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bruce, who left Sunday for a two weeks' stay at San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Polts and family returned Monday from a week end stay at Big Bear.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Belanger returned last Saturday from a motor trip to Big Bear.

BEAVER PATROL TO PRESENT PLAY

The Beaver patrol of Troop No. 2, Glendale, will give an entertainment at 7:30 Thursday, August 30, at the high school auditorium. They will present a Scout play which they have been practicing for the last three weeks. The play is given in three acts, with the following cast:

Roy O'Flannigan, Wilbur Booth; Tom Miller, John Torry; "Pee-Wee" Durwin, Charles Wyman; "Slim" Mulligan, Jack Packard; James Murphy, Ralph Doose; Peabody Wilks, Roscoe Graham; Solomon Mugston, Kenneth Greenlaw; Chauncy Puter, Bill Rhodes; The Mascot, Cecil Torry; the Old Man, Arthur Barton; the Scoutmaster, H. B. Robinson.

In addition to the play, there will be a Harold Lloyd comedy and a big seven-reel feature entitled "Young America." With the money they make from the entertainment they will visit Catalina during the week of the eclipse. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

PERFECT BACK BABE CONTEST

It is seldom that a contest meets with the approval of the public to such an extent as that of the Perfect Back Baby Contest, which is being held by the chiropractors of Southern California. Up to the present time, the list of entries greatly exceed expectations and according to a statement made today by L. A. Maben, who is in charge of the contest, no less than 2000 youngsters will be entered when the contest comes to a close. Valuable prizes are to be awarded the youngsters with the most perfect backs and keen competition is looked for before the final awards are made. The foremost thought in the minds of the men and women who are conducting this contest, is the building up of strong, healthy minds and bodies in California youngsters and it is for this reason that the perfect back baby contest is being held. All that is necessary to enter a baby is to take it to any reliable chiropractor who has contest cards. They will gladly examine and enter the baby in the contest free of charge. Any child six years of age or under is eligible. There is still plenty of time to enter the baby, but Mr. Maben advises doing so at once.

When a Small Business Grows

As Glendale grows, many business concerns, small at the start, are growing with it. Growth brings an increasing need for bank credits.

A bank may loan to one patron, only a small proportion of its capital and surplus. Many concerns, as they develop, find they have outgrown their credit with a small bank.

The Security Bank has ample capital and surplus—$10,525,000—to protect the credit needs of its largest customers. At the same time it takes good care of the small business house. Arrange your finances so you may grow with Glendale.

Building an Empire
-the Pacific-Southwest

THE "Pacific-Southwest" is an empire. Within its economic boundaries are practically every mineral and power resource, broad livestock ranges and the most diversified agricultural production to be found anywhere. It is more nearly sufficient unto itself than any other district in the world.

The Pacific-Southwest inter-community banking system, with branches in thirty-six California cities from Fresno south, is serving this territory. It is striving to assist the co-ordination of industries and resources, natural and financial, to bring about a more rapid and better development of each component part of the great area.

While providing its communities with every advantage of large metropolitan banking service, each branch has retained its local stockholders and management, thus keeping an intimate, sympathetic understanding of the needs of the locality it serves.

Three removes are as bad as a fire.—Franklin.

I live in the crowd of jollity, not so much to enjoy company as to shun myself.—Johnson.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION

Traffic congestion in cities has reached a point at which the remedy must be applied. Regulation has been in the hands of the police everywhere. The chief of police in Los Angeles makes the novel suggestion that the whole question of traffic be taken away from the police. He believes that the work should be delegated to engineers. He would have experts with a real knowledge as to street capacities, men who have made a special study of the problem, relieve the police from work he does not regard them as competent to perform. He thinks that the police should be allowed to devote themselves to suppression of crime. He calls upon Los Angeles to set a precedent in this respect.

It does not require a trained observer to understand that before relief can be adequate, there must be many radical changes. Streets need to be straightened and widened. If not reduced to a system of one-way traffic, they will have to be freed from cars running on surface tracks. These will have to be placed underground or elevated. With the number of automobiles rapidly increasing, conditions already dangerous are becoming intolerable. This involves work for the engineer, to be sure, but that a diploma from a technical school need be part of the equipment of the man directing the flow of vehicles at the crossing, perhaps is a different matter.

One weak spot in the prevailing arrangement is in permitting incompetent drivers to obtain and keep licenses. Many apparently reckless drivers have perfect mastery over their machines. They should be made to conform to the laws, of course. Other drivers are simply unfit, and without actually violating rules, are the source of delay and danger. A person who buys a machine, even though without knowledge how to start or stop it, receives with his purchase a license permitting him to become a plague on the highway. Then there is the person who drives while drunk, and whose conduct constitutes a felony, yet who never is penalized as the statutes provide. He should be abated.

The public is likely to be pleased with the ideas of the chief. It desires reform in vehicular traffic. The agency of reform, so it be effective, does not matter so much. However, the thought of having more police to deal with the prevalent criminal, is rather welcome.

NATIONAL SELF INTEREST

The Earl of Birkenhead, formerly lord chancellor of England, stated in an address delivered in Massachusetts that self interest alone should determine as to intervention by the United States in the affairs of Europe. He said the world was not ready for the idealism of Woodrow Wilson.

Upon analysis, the words of the speaker seem to convey a meaning other than they actually expressed. Perhaps he was trying to convey the thought that even the selfish interests of this country would be benefited by the effort to rehabilitate Europe. Certainly he did call attention to the limitations of a country's power to subsist on and by its own productivity. Would it prosper the United States to have Europe again the scene of military ravishment? If not, what is to be done about it? What is "intervention" as the term is used by him?

So far as known this country neither has sought to intervene nor suggested the desire to do so. If it were to offer its kindly offices in the settlement of a controversy, the proffer being welcome to both sides, or to all parties, that hardly could be construed as intervention. The proposal for a world court could not be of effect without full consent of every power concerned. Therefore not even this is an attempt at intervention.

It does appear that to Europe falls the considerable task of determining its own future. America has not tried to interfere. Strong as this country is, it is not inclined to coerce or intimidate. It wishes the troubled area well, but it does not dictate. It goes about its business, intent upon prosperity, and acquiring it. And though it may yearn to have other countries do similarly, it gives no official counsel, and assuredly it refrains from issuing orders.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR SPEED

Two men robbed a man and woman recently. Having accomplished this, they took the woman to a distance and attacked her. They were caught and confessed the crimes. They are believed to have perpetrated many other crimes, although this is not a vital consideration. The crimes they confess should be enough to send them to the penitentiary for the rest of their worthless and dangerous lives.

There have been many complaints of the slowness of the courts. In instances cases have dragged to weary length, and because of the length, ended in futility. The purpose of a criminal trial is to prove the guilt or innocence of the accused. When the accused proclaims his guilt, there remains nothing to be proved. Therefore the whole procedure, save as it may consist of passing sentence, represents a waste of time.

But there are many precedents for prolonging even such a case as the one mentioned. Granted that there is no doubt of guilt, if a trick lawyer be engaged, he could cause a plea of "not guilty" and bring about repudiation of the confessions. A jury could then be selected, and be in duty bound to regard the presumption of innocence, although in fact no such presumption could exist. There might be acquittal or disagreement.

If proper celerity were the rule, a man who confessed a bestial crime one day would be in the penitentiary the next. But in the circumstances as strangely tolerated, confession is no sure indication that he is ever to see the inside of the penitentiary.

CHARGE IT TO CRIME

As a policeman endeavored to capture desperadoes who were shooting at him, a bullet from his revolver resulted in the death of a newsboy. This was a most deplorable outcome. The policeman was doing his duty. That he took the life of an innocent young man doubtless is more deeply tragic to him than to anybody else in the world.

The cry of condemnation has arisen. Critics demand that the city be held responsible. The policeman is subjected to rebuke. All this is the verdict of impulsive sentiment. The whole fault lies with the criminal. The criminal presence is in itself a danger. The habitual enemy of society is ready to take human life on small pretext, or on no pretext. His elimination becomes a vital necessity. The process is not one primarily marked by gentle methods. The attempt to apprehend the criminal necessitates force. This, of course, sets up a new peril, but one not to be avoided. It could not be regarded as good policy to cease pursuit of the evil-doer, lest hurt be inflicted where not intended. The chance of being hurt is taken by all. It is forced upon the public by the activities of the underworld. Permitted to operate unchecked, the denizens of the underworld would dominate, and communities now comparatively safe, no longer would be fit for habitation.

The effect to overcome the criminal is real war. It is bound to cause casualities. The blame for all of these, even though due to the direct act of the representative of the law, rests upon the criminal class.

A spook specialist says the time is not far distant when colleges will be compelled to maintain departments of psychical research. It is probable the gentleman errs. Table- tipping may excite the curiosity. Many have devoted considerable time to study of it, but it has gotten them nowhere and has done them no good. On the contrary see what it has done to Conan Doyle!

Touching The Dance Again

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The plan that follows is simple and feasible; and so everybody will sniff at it.

The regulation of dancing is an unending vexation. It vexes the young people who want to dance and it vexes the oldsters who disapprove dancing and, unable to stop it, make the pursuit of it as hard as possible.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

On one point only are all decent people agreed, public dancing places should be made safe and decent. But how?

As we now manage them, they are so heavily taxed that the need to make expenses tempts the proprietors to admit many who would otherwise be excluded; and as we now manage them it is practically impossible to exclude many minors whom the law was framed to protect from attendance on places of public amusement without the consent of their parents and guardians.

Lastly there is always the problem presented by the undesired attendance in licensed dance halls of men and women of bad character.

And so tonight, thinking of the problem, I had a sudden idea.

We license dance halls. Continue to do so.

We do not license those who may attend them. Do so.

In Sweden and Norway and now in Canada they license those whom the government feels have a right, because of self control and good character, to drink a certain moderate amount of alcoholic beverages.

Why can not our cities license men and women of suitable age and established character, issuing to them, on proof of identity and probity a license similar to a passport, which would entitle them to attend any properly regulated dance hall. Such a permit could be revocable at the pleasure of the police commission and a slight charge for it would go toward paying the expenses of policing such places and chaperoning them. No permit would be transferable and no one could enter a public dance hall without showing his permit. Bad conduct would be punished by revocation of the permit, the proprietor taking up the permit of any one guilty of improper conduct and returning it to the police commission.

Forfeiture of a permit would be forfeiture of the right to attend any licensed dance hall.

With such a regulation no girl or boy would be able to escape the family and run off to a dance hall nor would married people be able to deceive each other while philandering round with other men or women at public dances.

To be sure there will be a storm of protest from the army of those who believe things never can be regulated in other ways than those at present in vogue.

Just the same, I believe that in the little germ of thought that is here outlined is a possibility of correcting many of the evils attendant of public dancing.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

When Tommy Horner appeared with a black eye we all wondered. But none of us asked a question. Tommy has the name of being an unstable temperamental compound. He is apt to detonate on impact. He fooled us this time.

"Jim gave it to me," he said, cheerfully. "And I pried a tooth out of Jim."

Jim was his partner. They were good friends, but Jim who was really the more able of the two, had been dominated by Tommy. Tom used to storm and rage in their partnership disputes. He got his way because Jim did not want to go to like extremes. Tommy often said:

"I'm sorry for my villainous temper. I'm shamed. I blow up like a fool. But I cannot control it."

"You can control it if you try," Jim said at last. "But you don't try. You let go because you think it is safe."

That brought about the fight. Tommy said, pleasantly, that it was a draw. Jim said that both were willing to quit when the porter finally pried them part. But mark this:

That fight took place three years ago. And they are still partners. And Tommy has not lost his temper since.

There isn't a quick temper in the world that cannot be kept in subjection.

More than that: There isn't a quick temper in the world that is not—habitually—held down when its owner knows it is not safe to let it go.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Bread on the waters.

One of those expressions which has come to have a beautiful significance.

Deeds put into the world of men and women.

JAMES W. FOLEY

Having their consequences sure.

* * *

The waters of life.

Broader than the ocean.

Broader than all the oceans.

For who shall say how broad and deep and wide a thing life is?

Occupying a universe.

Perhaps many universes.

Who knows?

* * *

Life is the greatest of created things.

And human life the greatest of created life.

Dominating the wood and the field and the mine and the sea.

Calling everything in creation to its use and benefit.

* * *

Life with its joys and sorrows.

Its births and deaths.

Its growth and decay.

Its struggles and trials.

Its defeats and victories.

An epic so vast that no man has written it.

* * *

The greatest poets and teachers and philosophers have sought to present it.

And have merely touched it.

For all the millions of years of the growth and development of human life have been full of its passions and emotions and struggles and movements toward the light.

* * *

Human life.

So far as we know the greatest thing in creation.

Sometimes strong.

Sometimes weak.

Sometimes glorious with achievement.

Sometimes frail with error.

But always human life, to be understood, to be loved, to be helped, to be lifted up.

* * *

So the allegory of bread upon the waters.

Bread of nourishment and refreshment and inspiration.

The waters of life, vast and illimitable.

And the bread of inspiration cast where life may have it.

And be nourished and refreshed and inspired.

* * *

It shall return again after many days.

No good deed yet but benefited the giver as much or more than the taker.

No seed sown but returns its yield an hundred fold.

No enrichment of life for others without a greater enrichment for ourselves.

A flower by the wayside.

Seed blown here and there.

And a bed of flowers.

To make bright the pathway for who may come after.

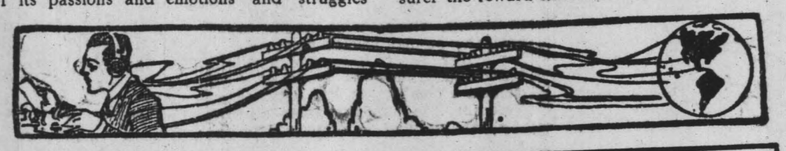
* * *

Bread upon the waters.

Cast it generously.

Without thought of reward.

And the less the thought of reward the surer the reward shall be.



Songs of the Poets

A Song of the Seasons—By Cosmo Monkhouse

Sing a song of Spring-time,
The world is going round,
Blown by the south wind:
Listen to its sound.
"Gurgle" goes the mill-wheel,
"Cluck" clucks the hen;
And it's O for a pretty girl
To kiss in the glen.

Sing a song of Summer,
The world is nearly still,
The mill-pond has gone to sleep,
And so has the mill.
Shall we go a-sailing,
Or shall be take a ride,
Or dream the afternoon away
Here, side by side?

Sing a song of Autumn,
The world is going back;
They glean in the corn field,
And stamp on the stack.
Our boy, Charlie,
Tall, straight and light:
He shoots all the day
And dances all the night.

Sing a song of Winter,
The world stops dead;
Under snowy coverlid
Flowers lie abed.
There's hunting for the young ones
And wine for the old,
And a sexton in the churchyard
Digging in the cold.

THE SETTING

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EVERYTHING depends upon the Setting.

Nine-tenths of the charm of anything is its background.

Not long ago I saw an ancient Shinto Temple. It was nothing like as huge and cost nothing near as much as Saint Paul's Cathedral, but, although I am a Christian, it was more impressive to me because it was set on the side of a high green mountain and surrounded by a grove of gigantic cryptomerias.

The value of a picture depends very much upon where it is hung.

Even a chair or a table, though most artistic and expensive, gives poor satisfaction if it is set in the wrong place.

A great tree standing alone in a meadow is vastly more impressive than if it were crowded with its fellows in the forest.

So it is with what you say; its value is determined very largely by who you are and when, where and how you say it, quite as much as by the contents of the sentence itself.

In a heated discussion the man who will keep still until everybody gets through and then expresses his opinion quietly, puts tremendous force behind what he says.

A word set in poise shines like a jewel.

Mark Twain could not open his mouth and say a word but we thought it extremely funny; there was the setting of years of reputation. You, being a mere bookkeeper in a grocery, might say "honesty is the best policy," and no one would pay any attention to you; but let the King arise from his throne, or the President appear upon the White House steps, or the Prime Minister take his stand upon the floor of Parliament, and amid the breathless hush of the auditors declare that "honesty is the best policy," and the same would be telegraphed, cabled, radioed, printed and repeated at the ends of the earth.

How much twaddle is perpetrated and listened to simply because of its setting. I have heard bishops babble while the great congregation looked up with worshipful eyes. I have heard presidents pull platitudes so dreadful that I did not know whether to laugh or to cry, and have been astounded to see his hearers clap their hands and turn around and smile and nod their heads at each other. I have read the most monstrous drivel perpetrated by judges; their lives were saved only by the bench on which they sat; if they had been school boys they would have been spanked and sent home.

This world does not want for wisdom. There are plenty of people wise enough to tell us what to do. The trouble is that most of the pedestals are occupied by ninnies. The real leaders of men cannot get the proper setting.

You, gentle reader, know this very well, for if the world would but listen to you respectfully you would set everything right.

Then there is the setting of actiop; if we like anyone, whatever he says impresses us; if we despise him nothing that he can say matters.

Controversialists and politicians understand this law very well. When they want to upset an opponent they do not bother with disproving what he said; it is much more effective to bring out the fact that he was drunk last Friday. If you want to refute the argument about the Trinity which your theologian antagonist has made, the most effective way to do so is to publish the fact that his wife's cousin was once in the penitentiary.

If you want to ruin a man, or more especially a woman, throw mud on the background, not on the individual. It is easier and more effective.

And if you wish to attain great reputation and fame in this world give attention to your pedestal as well as to your statue.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

KOTOWING FOR PROSPERITY

[Kansas City Star]

"The bottom of this new movement," says Senator Moses, referring to the election of Magnus Johnson of Minneapolis, "is that anything and everything can be done by law."

Surely. We Americans expect the party in power to legislate us into prosperity. Our feeling is the same as that of the Chinese mandarin in the great drought. "Our emperor has kotowed for rain," said the mandarin, "and no rain has fallen. Of what use is an emperor whose kotowing does not bring rain?"

We expect the government to kotow for higher prices for wheat and hogs, and lower prices for food; for higher wages for railroad men and lower cost of transportation.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

According to an editorial writer a New York girl has been sentenced to five years in Auburn prison, her crime being that "she stole a pocketbook from another woman containing five cents." What the pocketbook contained is not stated definitely, but the context reveals that it really was in the purse.

HENRY JAMES

The writer goes on to show how law looks upon crime in a broad and unsentimental manner. There surely is not much sentiment in sending a girl to prison for five years for the theft of five cents. If the purse had contained $10,000, it would have been all the same to the guilty person, the editor affirms. But he is mistaken.

Had the thief got hold of such a sum, she could have retained counsel, the reporters would have told of her beauty, and the sobsisters portrayed the prisoner's devotion to a sick mother. The jury would have wept salt tears and let her go.

It is well to punish the petty transgressor, of course, but why the immunity of the big one? Suppose some of the contractors who have soaked the government for millions were to be penalized on the scale of the nickel snatcher? The effect on human conduct would be far more marked. At least, the incident would be remembered for a day or two.

Jesse Taylor, who escaped from the penitentiary, says that he got out with the intention of getting married and beginning life over again. He has committed scores of crimes of violence, and been convicted of enough of them to have held him awhile save that he was too smart for the guard.

The manner in which he began the noble career of his pipe dream was by "sticking up" a bank and a creamery. So now he is to be tried for the recent crimes and sent back with such a burden of sentences that the parole board will have difficulty in lifting all of them.

Jesse says he steals because he fell out of an apple tree. Perhaps his bump of veracity was jarred out of place by the same tumble.

"Lack of bathtubs, soap and water and hair cuts created the Bolsheviki and resulted in the present misery in Russia," says Colonel Archer, who has been in that country for a long time.

Sanitation surely is a great thing. But where is the "misery" of which he speaks. A distinguished delegation of somewhat near statesmen are now in Russia at the expense of Hearst to prove that to be the most happy, enlightened and prosperous land on earth, and their boss is satisfied that they are doing it and earning their keep.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

MAKING HIM MIND

Most of the complaints that parents make about their children come down to the statement, "How can I make him mind?" That is, "How can I make this child do what I think he ought to do and not what he thinks he wants to do?"

I don't know. I don't know because I can't see how any human being is ever going to do what another wants him to do and be happy and healthy in doing it. Why do you want the child to "mind" you? What is it he refuses to follow you toward? What experiences has he had and what ones have you had that bias your opinions and pull you apart?

Of course, the question of obedience rarely enters where the little children are concerned. As a general thing if they do not "mind" they are promptly made to "mind" and that "ends" it. I often wonder if that didn't begin it?

You see a child is an entirely new person. There was never quite one like him on this earth. No, he is not like his father; he is not just a repetition of his mother or his grandmother either. He is a new person.

That means that he will look at things from a different standpoint from any that has been used before and so will see things differently from the way others have seen them. Which, of course, is as it ought to be. Looking at a thing from his side he will want to do something that you never did and that perhaps you think no one should ever do.

You may be right and he may be wrong. Either way I must tell you that the only way that the child will ever learn that he is wrong and drop his idea, is by trying it and finding out.

Sometimes the experiment would be too costly and one dare not let him try it out. One must prevail upon him to accept another's opinion. But he won't?

I can only shake my head and say, "I'm sorry," and wonder if when he was little you thought over his impulses to do things and tried to give him as many first hand experiences as you possibly could. It is easier to find them for him when he is little you see. Easier to teach him that you want him to try for himself; that you wish his happiness; that he can trust you to stand back and give him his chance.

I think if you have, you can talk to him so as to dissuade him from any serious error and that is as far as you can ever hope to go in "making him mind." There is no such thing as "making" a human being who has a mind do anything that he really does not wish to do and have the doing stick. All that must be done by laying a foundation of trust and affection when the child is young.

The child that you are worrying about, the adolescent, needs to be pushed off the edge of the nest and forced to fly a little bit. It won't hurt him.

You can always be on the lookout for the cat and he won't know she is there, like as not. The best way to make him mind is not to give him any orders until he asks for them and then give him advice. But begin early.

CHASE AND YARD RETURN FROM TRIP NORTH

Ride Through Cloudburst in Colorado and New Mexico

Stillman Chase and Waldo H. Yard have returned from a transcontinental auto trip to St. Paul, Minn., which was full of interest and adventure. They left here the last day of June for the northern part of the coast, Seattle, Vancouver, etc., and from Seattle started on an eastern route that took them through Montana, Idaho, and Dakota and south to St. Paul, where they spent three weeks with Stillman's relatives. The start for home was made the early part of August, their itinerary taking them through Colorado and New Mexico, where they encountered terrific cloudbursts. Autos were bunch together all along the road and to pull each other out. In one day the boys suffered six punctures. The last time was late at night when all garage men had gone to bed. They succeeded in discovering a garage where a light could be turned on and by its rays they succeeded in effecting the repair themselves. Not until they crossed the line into California did they find good roads.

WIDOW FINDS $1000 IN BOX-SHAPED BOOK

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The widow of the late John Troutbeck, for many years coroner for Westminster, had such a surprise when a box, shaped like a book, containing 200 pounds ($1,000), was returned to her that she fainted. It appears the "book" was among a number which Mrs. Troutbeck sold for three pounds ($15), thinking they were old medical works of her late husband, and of little value. The bookseller on examining them discovered one had a lock, and on opening it found a five-pound note and 190 one-pound notes, which he promptly returned to the widow.

Wurzburg Beer May Go Higher

[By Associated Press]

WURZBURG, Germany, Aug. 29.—Beer drinkers are watching the German hop crop anxiously. If the production this year is not great the price of beer probably will sail even higher than has been predicted by the brewers. An increase of 350 per cent in paper mark prices in scheduled for the near future, and still more may be expected, as the efforts of the government to peg the exchange rate of the mark do not seem to be meeting with any permanent success.

Prospects are excellent now for a good hop crop in the Franconian district, but rain during the harvesting season may injure the hops this year as it did last, when the output was discolored and impaired in quality.

'DARK SECRETS' IS FILM THRILL

Packed with thrilling incidents from start to finish, the various roles portrayed by thorough artists in their line, the direction superb, the photography highly artistic, "Dark Secrets," a Paramount picture directed by Victor Fleming, starring Dorothy Dalton, will be the attraction de luxe at the T. D. & L. theater for today and tomorrow. According to announcement by Manager Albright, this photoplay is one of the strongest attractions booked by him this season.

The story deals with the willful daughter of wealthy parents who falls in love with a British army officer and who, through an accidental fall from a horse, becomes paralyzed and is thrown into the hands of an Egyptian physician which precipitates a struggle for her love and honor between the army officer and the doctor. The picture has an exotic background, the locale of the story being divided between Cairo, Egypt, rich in oriental color, and Long Island with its fashionable homes of the rich.

Robert Ellis was selected to play the role of Lord Wallington, the British officer, and Jose Ruber, who had a colorful role in George Fitzmaurice's Paramount picture, "The Man From Home," which was made in Italy, is seen as Dr. Mohamed Ali, a sinister Egyptian physician. Ellen Cassidy, who played with Constance Binney in a "Room and Board," and who recently appeared with William Farnum in "Shackled Gold," has the part of Mildred, Ruth Rutherford's (Dorothy Dalton' friend. The role of Biskra, an Egyptian servant, is played by Pat Hartigan, a veteran screen player who has appeared in pictures of most of the leading producing companies. Recently he was seen with Richard Barthelmess in "Fury." Other members of the cast are well known screen players.

PUBLIC RECREATION

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Both because of their intrinsic interest and because of the helpful hints they proffer to communities still suffering from a dearth of public recreation facilities, I give herewith some gleanings from the 1922 survey of the recreation field made by the Playground and Recreation Association of America:

In Hartford, Conn., a $100,000 building, intended originally as a public market, was turned into a big indoor playground for the hundreds of children of that city's East Side. Its use by the children has steadily increased, doubtless because it contains, among other things:

Swings, slides, playhouses, a huge sand pile, a special section known as "Doll's Land," and a cradle room where "little mothers" may leave their babies while they themselves enjoy some recreation.

In a crowded St. Louis district the establishing of a municipal playground was followed by a decrease of 75 per cent in the number of juvenile court cases.

In Passaic, N. J., the judge of the juvenile court has had little to do since the opening of a recreation hall for boys of a crowded section. The hall is used by some 700 boys, 68 basketball teams having their games in it.

The recreation department of Reading, Pa., introduced into the hospitals of that city moving picture exhibitions. In some wards the pictures were thrown on the ceiling so that patients unable to sit upright might see them. Credit for the speedier recovery of many patients is given to this recreation device.

In Duluth the authorities organized a municipal Hallowe'en program. So did the authorities of Kenosha, Wisc. In both places there was a great decrease of damage due to Hallowe'en pranks.

At Oak Park, Ill., the city department of recreation organized a company of juvenile actors. This company gives plays Saturday mornings in a theatre of its own in the community house.

And these are only fragmentary glimpses of the great and varied progress made in public recreation in 1922. We find it stated in the annual report of the Playground and Recreation Association of America:

"In a year when the raising of funds for civic purposes has been exceedingly difficult the community recreation movement has held its own. Over $485,000 more was expended for recreation in 1922 than in 1921. And last year there were 2026 workers employed the year round—an increase of 30 per cent over 1921.

"Never before has interest in the leisure-time movement been so keen. Never has there been so widespread an appreciation of its value to the individual, the group and the community."

Yet it remains true that the possibilities and importance of development through play are by no means so generally appreciated as they ought to be. Which is why, in my gleanings today, I have selected chiefly items stressing this aspect of public recreation.

'THE SUPER-SEX' AT THE GATEWAY

"The Super-Sex," first of the productions made by the organization bearing the name of Frank R. Adams, comes to the Gateway theater on Wednesday. Almost everyone has read stories and novelettes by this favorite author in the leading magazines, but not everyone knows that he has formed a company to translate them to the screen.

The success of the venture seems assured, judging from the praise elicited from the New York critics on viewing "The Super-Sex." It is due in no small part to Lambert Hillyer, writer of the scenario as well as director of the picture, and the great care taken by Frank R. Adams and himself in choosing players most capable of portraying the homely simplicities of the characters.

"The Super-Sex" is the story of a typical small town youth of 20, his trials and tribulations as they concern himself, his family and his sweetheart, all people everyone has known or seen. These are woven into one of the most amusing and appealing stories written in many a day.

Miles Brewster Higgins (Robert Gordon) prides himself on his knowledge of women, "the super-sex," and especially his sweetheart (Charlotte Pierce). He owns what he grandly calls his "racing car," a thing of odds and ends built on a flivver chassis. A big, flashy roadster swoops down at the moment Miles scrambles from under his machine, his face and neck covered with black oil in one smear. He beholds his sweetheart with an immaculate youth who is introduced as J. Gordon Davis of New York. The boy's emotions are better seen than described.

STOVE CO. MAY OPEN FACTORY HERE

Supt. of Steager and Kerr Considers Glendale for New Plant

Mr. Jack Satler, superintendent of the Steager & Kerr Stove company, visited Glendale yesterday, contemplating the establishment of a factory here. Steager & Kerr manufacture the Occidental gas range. The central factory is now located in San Francisco. Mr. Satler seemed well pleased with the possibilities here.

The Elwood Gas Appliance company, 227 East Broadway, is the local agent for the Occidental range.

SMART BLACK VELVET FROCK

A black velvet frock of extreme chic has a circular flounce that narrows to a point on one side and has a bunch of gardenias as its only trimming.

'THE WOMAN OF BRONZE' IS HERE

"The Woman of Bronze," which comes to the Glendale theater tonight provides Clara Kimball Young with the greatest emotional opportunities of her career, according to advance reports. As a stage play, with Margaret Anglin in the leading role, "The Woman of Bronze" enjoyed highly successful runs in this country and in France, and screen fans are eagerly awaiting its presentation on the silver sheet.

It is by far the most gripping, and at the same time the most difficult role Miss Young has ever played, and the result is her greatest screen triumph. The photoplay is filled with thrilling incidents as one would expect in a story dealing with the attempt of a sculptor's wife to hold her husband, and to keep the flame of his artistry burning high, in the face of his infatuation for another woman. Here is a chance for emotional acting of the highest type, the portrayal of suffering voluntarily suppressed—for the sculptor's wife feared that any outbreak on her part might hinder her husband's work.

Leonard Hunt has begun work on a great Victory Memorial which is to enter in a million dollar prize contest. But he is at a loss for a model for the central figure of the group, until he sees Sylvia Morton. Sylvia consents to serve, and Len works feverishly on his statue. When he is depressed, the girl cheers him with her violin, and a genuine attachment grows between the two. Vivian, his wife, realizes that he is not doing his best work, but she is powerless to help him because of his relations with Sylvia.

Then Len too discovers that although the body of his statue is perfect, it is not soul. It fails utterly to express his idea of victory as coming from hardship and suffering. One afternoon, Vivian finds Len and Sylvia in passionate embrace. Despite Vivian's appeals, Len insists that he must go away with Sylvia, he cannot live without her. Enraged at his inability to work, he rushes in and damages the completed statue.

In addition to the valuable tract on which the new buildings are now being constructed, the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital Corporation owns one-third of a large block of land in the very center of the City of Glendale, appraised at $150,000, and included in this mortgage, on which is located its new hospital and maternity home, and which, at present, is the most valuable earning asset of the Corporation.

The location of the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital is all that can be desired, over twenty acres of elevated, wooded land, commanding a magnificent panorama of several hundred square miles of mountains, valleys, cities, and the distant ocean, having been secured for the new site.

STATE REDWOOD GROVE TO BE DEDICATED

The Humboldt Pioneer Memorial Grove, a tract of primeval redwoods near Orick, Humboldt county, will be dedicated to public use on Sunday afternoon, September 2, at 2 o'clock. The exercises will be simple and appropriate and will be held under the giant trees of this grove, recently given to the state by Mrs. Zipporah Russ of Ferndale.

The exercises will be conducted by the Save the Redwoods league, through whom this gift was made. Governor Friend W. Richardson has been invited to be the guest of honor. Dr. William F. Bade, councillor of the Save the Redwoods league, will deliver the main address. Dr. William F. Bade is past president of the Sierra club and is engaged in the preparation of the "Life and Letters of John Muir," whose literary executor he was. Judge G. W. Hunter of Eureka will speak on behalf of the local community. Members of the Russ family will be present at the exercises, as well as a number of Humboldt pioneers. The public has been invited to attend. A special invitation to participate has been extended to the Save the Redwoods league of Del Norte county and to the Women's Save the Redwoods league of Humboldt county.

The grove, which contains some of the finest and largest trees in the redwood belt, will become a unit in the system of state redwood parks. It contains 166 acres of redwoods and other timber on Prairie creek, and for three-eighths of a mile is traversed by the Redwood highway, leading from Orick to Crescent City. The grove is about nine miles north of Orick, or about 360 miles north of San Francisco.

The tablet to be erected at this grove contains the following inscription:

"This Grove
Is a memorial to the
Pioneers of Humboldt County

A gift to the State of California
June 5, 1923
From Zipporah Russ, a pioneer
of 1853
Who crossed the plains from
Illinois 1852,
Leaving May 6, arriving October 26.

In memory of her husband
Joseph Russ, a pioneer of 1852
Who leaving Maine November 1849.
Came around the Horn, arriving
March 1850."

LATE SUMMER'S MOOD

Now the reflective schoolboy sees them going,
The days of the late summer, one by one;
His thoughts are sober, earnest, for the knowing
That soon his summer's freedom will be done.
A short week more and his face will be turning
From brook and wood and all he loved so well,
And there will fall upon his dreams and yearning
The distant jangle of a school house bell.

It seems but yesterday that school was closing,
The exercises and the farewells said,
And in his seat he sat there, dreaming, dozing,
With thoughts of the long summer in his head.
And then school was dismissed and he went flying
Along the path with whistle and with song,—
It seems but yesterday, and now 'tis dying,
The summer that he thought would be so long.

The thoughts of him are sorrowful and sober,
The end of all is just a week away,
And then will come September and October,
With books and sums to interrupt his play.
A while ago he was all song and gladness,
The happiest boy who lived beneath the sun,
And now his sober thoughts are tinged with sadness,
Vacation over and the summer done.

ALIENS AIM TO BALK U. S. LAW

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 28.—The alien language school problem in the territory continues to be a subject of litigation in which the institutions, mainly Japanese, are attempting to restrain the government from enforcing the measure adopted by the last legislature for the purpose of controlling and reducing the number of courses in the schools.

In addition to the suit, now on appeal before the territorial supreme court, in which a group of the school obtained a restraining order, another suit has been brought by eight other schools to test the validity of the law, leaving only one Japanese school here admitting the validity of the law. This action was taken as the result of the United States supreme court decision declaring invalid the alien language school statutes of some 20 states, the schools here contending that the Hawaiian law should be placed in the same category as the state laws declared unconstitutional.

The second suit was brought in the face of advice by Consul General K. Yamasaki, who said, "If all of the non-litigating schools should join the ranks of the litigating schools, it would give a section of the American community the impression that the Japanese are organizing on racial lines." He pointed out that although some sections of the school law may be declared unconstitutional the entire measure is still in effect and expressed the hope that all the non-litigants would assume that the law is valid until it is declared otherwise by the supreme court.

Apparent disregard of the law has resulted in the issuance by the territorial attorney general of penal summonses for four teachers of the Palama Japanese language school on the ground that they have taught in the school without obtaining from the department of public instruction certificates showing them to have a knowledge of the ideals of democracy, American history and institutions, and to have the ability to read, write and speak the English language. Under the law persons without certificates who teach in an alien school are subject to a fine of $25 for each day's violation.

FIRE WARNINGS TO GO BY RADIO

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29 (United Press).—Hereafter, fire warnings through the forest districts will be sent by radio, instead of by telephone, according to County Forester Stuart J. Flintham, who announced the government had obtained a portable radio set mounted on a truck.

It is said to be the first radio system in use to serve fire warning purposes. The fire warnings will be picked up by private sets in the county for the present and relayed to the main office of Flintham.

A complete receiving and sounding set is being installed on the roof of the hall of records building and will be in direct communication with Flintham's office.

A government license was obtained for the station only after considerable difficulty; government regulations calling for a definite location for every station. Flintham wanted a portable station.

Ever notice how easy it is for a man to be good-natured when everything is coming his way?
